Introduction

Welcome to this catalogue of our green delft tiles. The use of copper based glazes (verdigris is the familiar patina of copper objects exposed to the elements) enabled early delft tile makers to create a variety of Green designs and we have re-created some delightful examples based on traditional styles. At Norton Tile we have specialised in making delft tiles for many years and today we are one of the very few tile workshops in Europe still using the original tile maker's methods. All our tiles are handmade and every design tile is individually hand painted by us in our workshop in rural Sussex.

The catalogue shows our carefully considered collection of green delft design (or picture) tiles and whilst they are all our own work we readily acknowledge we have learnt heavily on original 16th and 17th century designs. Where a less intense decoration is sought we recommend mixing design tiles with 'corners only' tiles - often in a ratio of six 'corners only' tiles to each design tile. The use of 'corners only' tiles in this way maintains the delft style throughout the tiled area.

The price of all the design tiles in the Green Collections is £12.50 each. The 'corners only' tiles are £3.60 per tile. These prices are fully inclusive with the exception of delivery which is charged at cost – and you are always welcome to collect your tiles from our workshop if this is more convenient.

The tiles are arranged in Collections of six designs following a particular theme but please feel free to mix and match from the collections to create your own personal selection. And if you can't find exactly what you are looking for in these collections then we offer a bespoke service and would be happy to create designs specifically for you – perhaps you have a particular theme in mind, want to include a personal image, or have seen delft designs you have fallen in love with. Sometimes people decide just to include one or two bespoke designs to add to their selection of tiles from our Collections. Ultimately the choice is entirely yours. Find out more about bespoke tiles on our website or simply get in touch by telephone or email. You will find our contact details at the end of the catalogue.

Whilst we are talking about choice we also have delft collections in other glaze colours – blue, crimson, sepia, and polychrome. You can find out more and download catalogues from our website.

Just to add a further thought - the original delft style decorations were in the form of tile panels, sometimes covering a whole wall, using many individual tiles to create a single overall image or design. What we generally think of today as delft tiles, with a complete design on a single tile, came somewhat later. We can create traditional hand painted delft panels in pretty much any size and design of your choice. We would be delighted to discuss your ideas so please contact us for further details.

Because you really do need to hold one in your hand and to touch and see the real thing, we are always very pleased to send sample tiles.

All our tiles are made to order so we only keep a small stock from our range of tiles to use for samples. As a result, while we can happily send you a sample of a particular colour (ie blue, green, sepia, crimson or polychrome) we cannot undertake to send a specific design (eg flowers or birds). These sample tiles are available at a special price of £10 including postage and packing. The advantage is that because these tiles are held in stock we can usually dispatch them to you by first class post the same day. There is a Sample Tile Order form near the back of this catalogue – alternatively you can order samples online at our website.

If you would prefer to see a specific tile you have in mind you can order a single tile using the Tile Order Form at the end of this catalogue, tiles are £12.50 (except polychrome tiles which are £15.00) each plus post and packing and you should allow around two to three weeks for the tile to be completed.

In the absence of you holding a sample tile in your hand, we invited our artist to describe the tiles. You must, perhaps, forgive its romantic undercurrents but we are, after all, passionate about our work!

"The tile is hand made in terracotta clay. A white glaze surface breaks over the undulating edges, revealing in places hints of the pinkish undertones of the clay. All the special qualities of the handmade tile are accentuated by this process making the tile itself appear ageless and, indeed, it has been mistaken for an old delft tile. All this before the charm of the design itself is individually hand painted onto its surface, each one having its own enchantment. Individually, they are to fall in love with but it is over a large surface that the craftsmanship of the handmade, hand painted tile, comes into its own. As an artist, I have never bored of painting them and love the way that a monochromatic image can have such depth of character, at once springing into life. So much so that you can hear the small piper playing his flute as he sits perched upon a rock and feel the sea spray as the tip of a galleon's prow hits a rolling wave, whilst, high above the singing rigging, two seagulls dip towards the horizon. Don't get me started on describing all the possibilities ..!"

Above all we want you to enjoy every aspect of your delft tiles so if you have any questions please do get in touch.
